The text is for questions 13 to 15. (Explanation)

Why we can produce urine?

Urine is the waste from our body, so urine must removed. The function from removing urine is to control the volume of blood and to maintain the balance of certain salts in our body. The process removing urine happens in kidney.

The process begin when blood passes through renal arteries, and then through filtration process , in this process primary urine is filtrate, so the blood cells and most of the protein cannot penetrate the capillary walls because they are too large.

After this filtration, the urine go to reabsorb ion process, in this process most ions, water, all glucose, amino acid, and small sized protein are reabsorbed into capillarity’s blood by diffusion. And then the urine goes to augmentation process. After the augmentation process, the urine goes to collecting tubules.

Urine in collecting tubules flow into a basin shaped cavity called pelvis. Then it goes to ureter, after that ureter is a duct that carries urine from a kidney to the urinary bladder. Then, the urine is expelled out of the body through urethra. So, we must thankful we can produce urine.

The text is for questions 16 to 19. (Report)

A storm is any disturbed state of an astronomical body's atmosphere. It especially affects its surface, and strongly implying severe weather. It may be marked by strong thunderstorm, heavy snowstorm, rainstorm, heavy ice storm, strong winds or wind transporting some substance through the atmosphere. Storms generally lead to negative impacts to lives and property, such as storm surge, heavy rain or snow . These cause flooding, lightning, wildfires, and vertical wind shear. However, systems with significant rainfall can alleviate drought in places they move through. Heavy snowfall can allow special recreational activities to take place which would not be possible otherwise, such as skiing and snowmobiling.

Storms are created when a center of low pressure develops, with a system of high pressure surrounding it. This combination of opposing forces can create winds and result in the formation of storm clouds, such as the cumulonimbus. Small, localized areas of low pressure can form from hot air rising off hot ground, resulting in smaller disturbances such as dust devils and whirlwinds.

The following text is for questions 24 to 26

Much of what we throw away could be used again. Recycling makes "garbage" to good use. Recycling helps preserve precious resources because it saves on the use of raw materials and energy. It also reduces the pollution when the waste is dumped.

Glass can be re-melted. This is better than making fresh glass from raw materials, but it is even better to reuse the bottle whole. Metals can be recycled by being re-melted and then used to make other new items. The metals to recycle from an ordinary household are aluminum and steel from cans. Scrap from cars gives several different metals from recycling.

Paper is easy to recycle. Every home and office should have a paper recycling routine. Plastics are the worst problem because they do not biodegrade (breakdown) easily. They are also hard to recycle and cause harmful pollution when burned. It is important to use as little plastics as possible, and then only ones that are recyclable or biodegradable.

Taken from: Natural Resources, 1993

24. What is the main idea of the first paragraph?
- a. Glass can be re-melted.
 - b. Recycling puts "garbage" to good use.
 - c. Recycling helps preserve precious resources.
 - d. Much of what we throw away could be used again.
25. How can metals be recycled?
- a. By scrapping.
 - b. By re-melting.
 - c. By burning.
 - d. By cutting.
26. They are also hard to recycle and cause harmful pollution when burned (par 3).
The word "they" refers to
- a. home
 - b. paper
 - c. office
 - d. plastics

The following text is for questions 30-32

Jane Goodall was born in London, England in 1934 to Mortimer Herbert Morris-Goodall, a businessman, and Margaret Myfanwe Joseph, a novelist who wrote under the name Vanne Morris-Goodall.^[11] As a child she was given a lifelike chimpanzee toy named Jubilee by her father; her fondness for the toy started her early love of animals. Today, the toy still sits on her dresser in London. As she writes in her book, Reason For Hope: "My mother's friends were horrified by this toy, thinking it would frighten me and give me nightmares."^[14] Goodall has a sister, Judith, who shares the same birthday, though the two were born four years apart.

Goodall is best known for her study of chimpanzee social and family life. She began studying the Kasakela chimpanzee community in Gombe Stream National Park, Tanzania in 1960.^[12] Without collegiate training directing her research, Goodall observed things that strict scientific doctrines may have overlooked.^[13] Instead of numbering the chimpanzees she observed, she gave them names such as Fifi and David Greybeard, and observed them to have unique and individual personalities, an unconventional idea at the time.^[13] She found that, “it isn’t only human beings who have personality, who are capable of rational thought [and] emotions like joy and sorrow.”^[13] She also observed behaviors such as hugs, kisses, pats on the back, and even tickling, what we consider "human" actions.^[13] Goodall insists that these gestures are evidence of "the close, supportive, affectionate bonds that develop between family members and other individuals within a community, which can persist throughout a life span of more than 50 years."^[13] These findings suggest similarities between humans and chimpanzees exist in more than genes alone, but can be seen in emotion, intelligence, and family and social relationships.

30. What does paragraph two tell us about?
- A. The importance of numbering and naming the chimpanzees
 - B. The similarities between humans and chimpanzees
 - C. Goodall’s concern for the safety of chimpanzees
 - D. Goodall’s observation on the chimpanzees
31. From the text we can infer that...
- A. Goodall comes from England
 - B. Goodall and Judith are twin sister
 - C. Chimpanzees are exactly the same as humans
 - D. Chimpanzees have personalities as well as humans
32. an unconventional idea at the time. (paragraph 2 line 6)
What does the underlined word mean?
- A. Unusual
 - B. Unbelievable
 - C. Unaware
 - D. Unknown

The following text is for questions 33-35

One hot day I was sitting on my favorite armchair watching TV when the ceiling fan suddenly dropped on my head. It really hurt and I got a big cut on my eyebrow. I went upstairs to the bathroom to clean the cut. While I was looking for a plaster, the telephone rang. I ran to answer it and fell down the stairs and broke my arm. I called an ambulance to come and help me.

The ambulance came quickly and took me to the hospital. The pain in my arm and head was terrible, While I was waiting to see the doctor, a nurse very kindly asked me if I wanted a drink. I asked for some hot tea. Just as she was giving it to me, someone ran fast and accidentally bumped into her, She dropped the hot tea all over my chest. I screamed from the pain and she quickly got some cold water and threw it over me. My chest felt better but soon I started to feel very cold. I started shaking and sneezing.

Finally the doctor called me in. While I was walking to his surgery, I slipped on the water and fell down hard on my burn. The doctor was very impatient with me, he looked at my arm, the cut on my head, my chest and then he asked me to open my mouth. He said,“You are a very silly man, you should be more careful.” Then, while he was walking back to his desk, he tripped over a book on the floor and banged his nose on the desk and his stethoscope poked him in the eye. I didn’t say anything, but just smiled to myself.

Read the text for question 48-50

Old man Ma lived a lonely life. His house was a cave at the edge of Black Bamboo forest. Ma's only friend was an old dog called Lau Ping which he loved very much. All the town people thought Ma was very old and poor. The truth was that he had a very big, well-kept secret. He was in fact a rich young man in disguise. In his cave he stored much wealth acquired from his travels around the world. He wanted to leave the cave and stay in a place far, far away. Until then his wealth must remain a secret because he feared somebody might steal his precious belongings.

A young maiden named Snow Pea lived near him. She had a heart of gold and always wanted to help him. Alas, Ma was very ungrateful. He never thanked her but scolded her instead.

One day, Ma came back from his travel and found his dog missing. He was extremely upset and searched everywhere but he couldn't find it. Ma then sat down and wept bitterly. His heart was filled with despair as he realized that all his riches could not take the place of his beloved dog.

The next day, Ma was awakened by a familiar bark outside his cave. It was Lau Ping. Ma was so happy that he rushed out without putting on his disguise. When he realized this, it was too late as Snow Pea had seen him. She had brought Lau Ping home after rescuing it from a hole and nursed its broken paw back to health.

Ma didn't care that his secret had been revealed. He finally realized life was meaningless without friends. He decided to go out from his disguise and since then he lived a normal and much happier life.
